

COLLEGE STUDENTS & Social Media

1

Negative content on social media can cause students to see changes in their mood

Popular trends on social media at the time can influence changes in moods, thoughts, and opinions on various things.

2

"it's good to see people from all over the world and see how they think. or their perspective on certain situations"

3

College Students find social media to oftentimes become a distraction in their daily routines.

College students use social media for entertainment and feelings of connectedness and are often not willing to give that up for increased productivity.

This helps determine motivations of using social media amongst college students, and the importance it holds in their lives.
